

TATTOO ART

Bert Rodriguez, who operates a tattoo parlor in Daly City, engraves a peacock on the back of his wife Kathy, a belly dancing instructor. Kathy owns the Bagdad Dance Studio.

The Ancient Art of the Undulating Abdomen

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Here's a bit of good news for those women who want to turn off the fat and turn on their men. It's called "classical mid-eastern dancing."

Kathy Rodriguez, who operates the Bagdad Dance Studio at 6535 Mission St., Daly City, claims belly dancing not only keeps a person in great shape, it also aids mothers-to-be in natural childbirth.

"The pelvic control needed to perform such dancing is a definite aid in natural childbirth," the pretty brunette explains.

Kathy's husband, Bert, has his office adjacent to his wife's.

Bert decided to move his tattoo parlor from across the street, where he had been located for about five years, to a corner room of the three-room building where his wife teaches the ancient art of the undulating abdomen.

Kathy's present class includes a nine-year-old Hawaiian girl and a 55-year-old housewife.

"Both are really good at dancing," she says.

Kathy first became interested in the art when she lived in Morocco in 1970.

"First I became interested in the country's culture and music. And I began looking for a dance teacher when I returned home," she said.

That was almost six years ago.

Now, Kathy is considered a success, and she is in much demand around the Bay Area.

The Texas-born dancer performs several times a month at the Bagdad Cabaret in San Francisco's North Beach district — where she began her professional career.

She also dances at private parties and operates the dance studio.

Between work hours she allows husband Bert to practice his art — tattooing brightly plumed birds and butterflies on her skin.

Bert is presently putting the finishing touches on a multi-colored peacock that covers much of Kathy's back.

Kathy met Bert when she came to his tattoo parlor four years ago to have a touchup job on an Egyptian scarab that was losing its colors.

Since then, Bert has given his wife the needle six times: An Aztec Indian symbol on her right arm; butterflies on her chest and leg; and the proud peacock.

Bert is covered literally from head-to-foot with tattoos.

He has "about 60, I guess" of the drawings, acquired over the past 15 years.

Asked what type of person allows himself to be tattooed nowadays, Bert replied:

"All sorts — from housewives to college girls. And from motorcycle riders to police officers. Matter of fact, I just finished tattooing two Daly City policemen."

While he did not name the pair, Bert did say each man had his wife's name emblazoned on his arm.

"At least, I think, they were their wives' names," he said.

Most popular tattoo among today's customers is a hearts and flowers design, Bert said.

"We still get calls for 'Death Before Dishonor' and the skull and crossbones, but today we have many more intricate colors and designs available and we get requests for flowers and birds," Bert said.

Perhaps what Kathy says is true: That belly dancing is good for one's health and well-being.

It has been established that "harem dancing," causes more than a casual interest among its viewers.

So adept is Kathy at her dancing that she makes Bert's peacock look like it wants to fly off her back.

But everyone knows peacocks can't fly, or can they?

BART Favors Daly City Parking Garage, Fees

Parking fees for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District station parking area in Daly City were approved in principle by the District board of directors Friday. Also approved was the expansion of the 800-space ground-level lot to a 1900-space multi-story garage.

Daly City has sought the increased parking to relieve neighborhood congestion around the John Daly Boulevard BART station, the southern terminus of the system. But it also has opposed parking fees such as those imposed by Southern Pacific Railroad on its Bay-side Peninsula commuters.

The resolutions on the increased parking are contingent on Daly City's approval because the city would contribute $300,000 toward the $3.5 million project, with the rest being federally funded.

But the BART board also declared in its parking fee resolution that it would seek "reasonable and appropriate fees," and 50 cents per car per day was suggested.

This would be considerably less than the $3 a day parking charge and special $1 fare surcharge to downtown San Francisco proposed recently by a BART engineering committeeman to finance the garage.

BART has said that since San Mateo County has refused to join the district it feels no obligation to spend other counties' money for improvements in Daly City, contends that many San Francisco commuters use the Daly City station, driving their cars there and adding to the congestion.

The BART board Friday also authorized several new fare schedules effective at different times over the next three months.

These would include raising the minimum age for free children's rides from under three to under five years old, raising the fare discount from 75 to 90 percent for riders over 65 years old, increasing the excursion fare rate from 60 cents to $1, giving a 75 percent discount to handicapped people after it is decided who would qualify; 75 percent discounts for school student outings in off-peak hours and expanded pass privileges for BART employees and relatives to connecting buses.

These new plans would be in for review sometime in midyear, officials said.

Housing Priorities Listed

The Daly City City Council Monday unanimously adopted a list of priorities submitted by a special citizens advisory committee on how to spend some $1.5 million in federal money.

The citizens committee, in a marathon six hour meeting two weeks ago, hammered out the list, shifting some allocations from one project to another, but basically going along with city staff's recommendations.

Councilman Tony Giammona in a motion Monday revised the list by taking some $10,000 away from the first year's allocation toward a community multi-purpose center and adding the money to assist in formation of day care centers.

Two women — Mrs. DeLois Black and Mrs. Rhina Gonzales — argued that the figure agreed upon by the advisory committee at its meeting was insufficient to launch the project. The committee and the city staff had suggested allocating $16,000, plus CETA funding, for personnel (about $18,000) in the day care centers' first year of operation.

This is to be boosted to $26,000, plus the CETA assistance, under Giammona's revision.

The program is a three year project, with an estimated total of some $1.5 million to be received by the city under the government's Community Development Program.

In all, 10 projects were considered by the committee, staff and council.

Topping the list was expenditure of more than $500,000 for studies, site selection, acquisition and construction of a new John Daly Library and multi-purpose center.

Second was implementation of a plan for rehabilitating housing in the city — mostly in the older sections of the community — with some $350,000 over the three year grant period.

Code enforcement in all census tracts in Daly City would be allocated $10,000 plus CETA personnel in the first year, with a total of $69,500 over the grant period.

And while the committee agreed the Lincoln Park Clubhouse and site should be expanded, it felt the money — about $31,000 — should not come from the block funds. Rather, the city should include the cost in its annual budget.

The city's Planning Commission on Jan. 21, also presented the council with its recommendations on how to spend the money.

With the exception of two items — Lincoln Park and Foster Parents ($6,000) — the commission's findings paralleled those of the citizens committee.

Councilman Victor Kyriakis reminded that the adopted list was not "hard and fast" and figures could be revised, as could priorities.

Man Sought For DC Rape

A 24-year-old San Francisco woman was abducted and raped as she walked to work Sunday morning in Daly City.

The victim was not identified. She suffered a fractured jaw in an unsuccessful attempt to ward off her attacker, police said.

The woman, an employee of a Serramonte convalescent hospital, had gotten off a San Francisco Muni bus at the corner of Mission and Hillcrest streets about 7 a.m. and was waiting for a connecting local bus to come along when the man forced her into his car.

After driving his victim to the rear of a deserted warehouse on Washington Street and San Pedro Road, some three miles away, he beat her into submission, police allege.

After assaulting the woman, the man drove her to the emergency entrance to Mary's Help Hospital a short distance away and let her out of the car.

Police describe the man as black, in his mid-20s, 5 feet 7 inches in height, short Afro-hair style, medium build, wearing a dark tie, white shirt, and maroon pants.

He also is believed to have several scratches on his face, police said.

Suicide Victim Donates Heart

Duwayne Moberly, 18, of Pacifica, who police say shot himself in the head, donated his heart and kidneys for transplant, according to the Santa Clara County Coroner's Office. He was pronounced dead at 6:30 p.m. Friday, at Stanford Medical Center.

The Center confirmed that a heart transplant operation was performed Friday evening. There was no kidney transplant.

A spokesman said that the heart recipient is in stable condition. The transplant operation was performed by Dr. Norman Shumway and a team of physicians.

Moberly had been discharged from the U.S. Army in November and had been unemployed since. Friends told authorities that Moberly was depressed, because he and a girl friend had broken off their relationship. He reportedly had left a poem in which he expressed his feelings of the futility of life.

Police said Moberly shot himself with a .22 caliber rifle at his home at 110 Monterey Road.

Moberly's roommates notified police of the shooting, and Moberly was transported to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City. From there a cardiac mobile unit transported him to the Medical Center.

Blossom Valley Development Stalled

A major Daly City housing tract off Guadalupe Canyon Parkway in the eastern stalled last Monday as the council, acting on recommendations of its staff, shelved the project until Feb. 10.

Two letters, dealing with the Blossom Valley housing easements to the utility company's electrical distribution facilities be kept open. Or, if relocated, the company be reimbursed for the work.

A PG&E official said this "reimbursement" could cost more than $500,000 to relocate power lines — some carrying 12,000 volts of electricity.

Mrs. Ray Crosby, of 1050 Schwerin St., owner of the property in Blossom Valley, told the council she received a letter from Arthur "Buzz" Haskins on Jan. 27.

Haskins, a property owner in the area under discussion, is grading the land in preparation for construction of some 163 single family homes.

Mrs. Crosby said Haskins is "wiping out our egress" and she is now trying to settle the matter with him.

"We want him (Haskins) to buy the place and relocate our house," Crosby said after the meeting.

Housing Slump Hits Daly City Hard

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The housing slump has hit Daly City hard in the past two years.

In 1974, the number of building permits issued was some 40 per cent below the previous year's figure of 755 permits issued.

Public works department officials see this figure dropping even more this year, according to a report issued recently.

There will be, however, an increase in the amount of permits issued for remodeling and multi-unit structures, the report ventured. Unless the Redevelopment Agency experiences a spurt of activity, construction of new office and commercial structures will not change, the report adds.

The city on the other hand, does expect considerable activity under the new Community Development block and Revenue Sharing grant programs, aimed at expanding building code enforcement in the city.

Two major rent-subsidized programs also are expected to get underway in 1975—one on East Market Street and the other in the Bayshore district.

Last year, there were 135 new single family dwellings and 460 permits for building modifications; also 1,840 housing units were completed in six large apartment complexes, along with several commercial and office buildings.

The city's Subdivision Ordinance, governing construction of tracts, was completed in 1974, following some six years of study and coordination with local engineers and developers.

To prevent flooding, the Vista Grande channel in the northwest section of the city was widened.

The next major storm drain project is planned for the Sullivan Avenue-90th Street area to relieve flooding in that part of Daly City, city officials explain.

Work on this project will be in conjunction with North San Mateo County Sanitation District sewer work.

Six new parking lots were constructed on Como Avenue, Hillcrest Avenue, two lots along Mission Street, at Westlake Park and at the Bayshore Library on Geneva Avenue.

More parking lot construction is expected in 1975, according to the city.

Other recreational areas completed last year were the Broderick-Terry Duel site; and the Hampshire and Camelot lot.

By mid-1975 construction on tennis courts atop reservoir 5B, plus landscaping of the area, will be underway, planners said.

A new program instituted by the city during 1974 was the opening of a second food stamp sales outlet at the Community Service Center, 6798 Mission St.

The office opened on May 1, City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf said.

"This program is ongoing — we have been advised by the county that over 200 new food stamp recipients are being certified monthly," Mrs. Ohlendorf said.

The food stamp program has increased over 800 per cent since it started in 1971, Mrs. Ohlendorf said.

to be no trouble in servicing the routes."

He also told Pilling if two permits were allowed in Daly City, the recently formed San Mateo County Transit Authority would perhaps spend twice as much money in buying them out in the future.

"And we will have to buy them out under present laws dealing with the (transit district)," Polonsky said.

GOP Sets Officers

Robert H. Finch, a former state lieutenant governor and former federal secretary of health, education and welfare, will be guest speaker at the Alliance annual meeting Feb. 26 at the Sheraton Motor Inn in Burlingame.

New officers for 1975 were elected last week by the San Mateo County Republican Alliance and upcoming programs scheduled.

A panel discussion of regional government at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 30 at Burlingame City Hall and featuring Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, San Mateo County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald and Contra Costa County Supervisor Warren Boggess, also president of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

New Alliance officers for the year are: Charles Cavalier, Arnett's legislative assistant, president; and Brian Benson, director of publications of Hoover Institute at Stanford University and Peter Schrager, president of Turek Frozen Food Co. of Burlingame, vice presidents.

Elected to the board of directors were: Del Green, Foster City; David Houston and Bruce Mitchell, Hillsborough; Loretta Kitt, Ray T. Marsh and Dawn Clifford, San Carlos; William Madden, San Mateo; Supervisor William H. Royer, Redwood City; Carolyn Judd, Belmont; Mario Torrigino, Pacifica; Gilbert Rodli, Jr., Burlingame; and Robert Wood, Menlo Park.

Further information about the Alliance may be obtained by calling or writing its office at 564 Market St., San Francisco 94104.

Bus Decision Months Away?

By FRANK LaPIERRE

A decision from the State Public Utilities Commission on whether to permit Daly City Transit Systems, Inc., to operate a bus line in Daly City may be several months off.

Prospects looked bleak for the company, which is made up of dissident bus owner-operators who walked off their job, with Northgate Transit Company after a series of disputes over operating conditions last year.

PUC Atty. Lionel Wilson dropped a bombshell at the PUC hearings held in Daly City during final day testimony Thursday, when he said the PUC had been watching operations of Northgate for several years following complaints from patrons on condition of the vehicles used and general operations.

Wilson also pointed out those drivers who bolted Northgate and formed their own company, are the same drivers who previously operated under the Northgate banner when complaints were received.

Mateo Matthews, representing the new group, argued that his company could provide better service than Northgate, therefore, they should have a permit to operate between Daly City, Stonestown and South San Francisco.

South San Francisco City Atty. John Noonan explained to hearing examiner William Pilling that his city was in the process of acquiring its own bus system.

Some $200,000 had already been spent on new vehicles and the system was expected to start rolling in July.

For a while, the 20 former Northgate drivers did operate on some routes in the North County.

Attorneys for Northgate sought a cease and desist order in San Mateo Superior Court and, on Dec. 6, drivers were ordered not to operate in the area served by Northgate.

Meanwhile Northgate secured several buses from throughout the state and attempted to serve the city.

Complaints were received on an increasing scale since then, the PUC examiner was told.

Daly City City Atty. Albert Polonsky, professing his city is neither "for nor against" either company, said that prior to the drivers leaving Northgate "there appeared

Pacifica Asks State Tax Probe

The Pacifica City Council wants the state legislature to investigate assessment practices they claim are unfair to homeowners.

They alleged Monday night that homes are being reassessed every two years, while commercial properties are reassessed every five years. The council also complained that homes are reassessed on the basis of recent sales, while apartments and business firms are assessed on their value as businesses.

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy said homes are assessed in different years, causing more hardships.

The council also voiced alarm over Assembly Bill 337, which would repeal last year's Senate Bill 90—but, it was claimed, would substitute more dangerous concepts. One of these concepts, Councilman Sid Lorvan said, already has forced school districts which have never experienced financial difficulties near bankruptcy.

Stabbing Suspect Is Arraigned

Kenneth F. Russell of San Bruno, was arraigned on a charge of murder in Municipal Court in South San Francisco Monday.

The 21-year-old Russell was scheduled to enter a plea Tuesday morning before Judge Jose De Larios.

Russell, who just two weeks ago was released from Atascadero State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, is charged with stabbing to death his boyfriend, John W. Yazolino, 20, in front of his friend's home at 214 Reichling Ave., Pacifica, last Thursday evening.

Police said Yazolino was stabbed "several times" in the chest and back.

No motive for the slaying has been established, according to Pacifica police, but further details of the killing have surfaced.

Pacifica police said that Yazolino visited Russell at his San Bruno home Thursday afternoon, about six hours before the slaying.

Police said Yazolino talked to Russell about arranging a weekend surfing expedition. Investigating officers said Yazolino spent about 20 minutes with the suspect, then left the home.

Thursday, between about 9 and 10 p.m., police said, Russell drove to Pacifica and met Yazolino and his girlfriend, who has not been identified, walking near Yazolino's house.

Police said Yazolino approached the car and asked Russell if he wanted to meet his girlfriend. Russell then allegedly jumped out of his car and attacked Yazolino, reportedly stabbing him repeatedly.

Police said the girlfriend ran to Yazolino's home to get help from his roommate, Gordon Holcombe. The roommate wrestled with Russell, attempting to pull him off Yazolino. Police said Holcombe succeeded in forcing the suspect to drop the knife. Russell, allegedly fled the scene in his car.

He was arrested early Friday at his San Bruno home.

Transit Board Seeks Members From Coast

The original six members of the San Mateo County Transit District Board of Directors have decided to extend the period for seeking applications from Coastside residents for appointment to one of the three public member positions on the board.

Supervisor William H. Royer reported that some 60 applications have been received for the three positions. However, he said, no one from the area south of Pacifica had filed by the Jan. 17 deadline, although there are a number of applicants from Pacifica.

High Hopes

operation, the section of line between Daly City and downtown San Francisco opened in Nov. 1973.

However, riders still cannot ride from Richmond to San Francisco without changing trains, Kopp pointed out.

"I don't have to tell you there are a lot of disappointed people in the district," he said.

"There's no question that... when BART is good, it's very good. When it's bad, it's very, very bad," Kopp said.

Operations haven't been following a smooth track either, the supervisor said.

Studies conducted over the years recommend that varying cuts in manpower be made.

The system was designed to be fully automated, and yet 13 years later a report has been made that some 350 jobs should be cut from the district, he said.

Kopp likened the position of BART to "featherbedding," similar to that conducted by some railroads (in requiring more workmen than are needed).

Another item placing a strain on the BART system, according to Kopp, is that between 40-50 per cent of the Rohr-made passenger cars are daily in the maintenance yard.

He called the percentage figure "astounding."

Another report received recently by BART recommends that a dramatic cutback in operational services be made.

"This could be the eventual salvation of (the system)," Kopp ventured. It would allow time to properly maintain the trains.

A big question facing San Mateo County is whether it wants a fixed rail system, or a flexible bus network, Kopp said.

He said a direct link from the Daly City station to San Francisco International Airport, is needed.

San Francisco needs the link because by 1981 the airport will be carrying an estimated 32 million passengers — almost double the 18 million passengers handled each year at SFO, Kopp said.

DC Woman Asks Food Stamps for Unborn

Two pregnant women — one from Daly City — have filed suit in U.S. District Court in San Francisco asking that their unborn children be allotted food stamps.

The women are Pamela Hickman of Daly City, and Rosa Emily Fields of San Pedro.

Both mothers-to-be are represented in their class action suit by the Legal Aid Society of San Mateo; Legal Aid Society of Long Beach; Food Advocates of Berkeley, and, Drew Health Rights Project of San Francisco.

The suit claims a woman once it is determined that she is pregnant, should be entitled to food stamps on the basis there is actually another family member in existence.

There are some 20 states that now recognize unborn children as members of a family and mothers receive grants under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, the suit explains.

Mrs. Hickman lives alone. She is in her final three months of pregnancy.

Presently, she buys a one-person allotment of stamps ($46) for $21 a month.

If the unborn child were to be recognized as another family member, Mrs. Hickman would get an additional $38 each month in food stamps.

Defendant in the suit is Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz.

"The unborn children of low-income mothers are subject to very substantial hazards of low birth weight, mental and physiological impairment, anemia, stillbirth and mortality, if their nutritional needs are not met," according to the suit.

The complaint added: "These nutritional needs include, but are not limited to, a 10 per cent increase in caloric intake and a 22-27 pound weight gain on the part of the mother."

Mission Merchants Elect President

The Daly City Mission Merchants Association held its annual Installation Dinner Saturday attended by some 200 persons.

Outgoing president Vince Merlo turned over his gavel to incoming president Madeleine Ongwarsky, manager of the Daly City branch of the Bank of America.

Merlo, a tavern owner at the Top of the Hill on Mission Street in the city, had headed the influential business group for some three years — almost from its outset.

During his term of office, the association grew from a membership of 42 members to some 176.

The membership presented Merlo with a plaque, movie projector and camera equipment as a token of its appreciation for his work.

Vice-president Richard Shannon, of Trinity Realty Co., also was installed along with newly-elected director Don McKenzie, owner of the Morning Glory House of Parties.

Master of ceremonies for the event was San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Frank Blum.

Beverly Dikas and Elna Greenwood, treasurer and secretary respectively, again were installed in the posts they have held since the association was founded.

Directors continuing in their posts are: Sett Casini, Kelly Greenwood, Jack Guisto, Ralph Hall, Elton McGraw, George Smith, Waldo Smith and Mike Wyman.

Daly City's Referral Centers

A Call for Agency Coordination

With various agencies designed to serve the community abounding in the North County, the need for some coordination between each is vital.

For example, the police should know that there are alcoholic referral centers available for problem drinkers they might encounter, and the schools should be aware that there are groups to assist those with drug problems.

Some representatives of these agencies have realized this need, and are banded together in a loosely knit group called North County Communications. They meet monthly to inform each other of the services they provide and to discuss any other matters of general significance to the various groups.

Recently, another similar group was started, under the title of Coordinating Council on Community Services for North County. Daly City police Lt. Tom Cully, spokesman for the council, said he didn't even know the Communications organization existed when he formed his group last November.

Lt. Cully explained that the new unit was formed because many of the agencies over lap one another, and don't always coordinate their efforts well enough, which means that the public doesn't get as efficient service as possible.

Lt. Cully, who is also a Salvation Army Service Officer, said most of the North County agencies had limited funding for community relations and that he wanted to find the most effective way to reach the people with the monies available.

In his own line of police work, Lt. Cully pointed out the necessity of knowing what other agencies were operating so that alcoholics, attempted suicides, drug users and students with truancy problems could be referred to the proper places for help.

Lt. Cully hopes his group can start meeting and possibly merge with the Communications organization to bring the flow of information between the North County agencies closer together.

The phone number for the Coordinating Council on Community Services for North County is 992-2567.

Colma School PTA Schedules Jan. 30 Meet

Colma School P-TA is exploring the possibility of adding to or building a new playground. On Jan. 30 at 7:30, the P-TA and ECE advisory board will sponsor a meeting about playing and learning.

Members of the San Francisco-based group Play Experience, formerly People at Play, will speak about the exciting new playgrounds they and architect Jay Beck with have created throughout the Bay Area. They will discuss the correlation between large muscle coordination and other learning, such as reading skills, and will show slides of some of the playgrounds they have designed and helped parents to build.

Many child care centers and public schools now have new play structures that incorporate tire jungles, ropes, cargo nets, and crawl spaces along with traditional slides and jungle gyms. Parents and members of the community aid in construction, and emphasis is placed on inexpensive materials.

Afro-America Is Skyline Theme

Skyline College's Spring Community Services program will emphasize an Afro-American theme, including an exclusive Bay Area personal appearance of the world renowned Richard Leakey on March 13, according to Director David Marin.

In 1972, in the Lake Rudolph region of Kenya, Leakey discovered human-like skull fragments dating back more than 2.5 million years — a half million years older than "Homo Habilis" unearthed earlier by his famous father, Dr. Louis Leakey.

William Ulrich, a Peace Corps volunteer who lived in West Africa for two years, will present a slide documentary contrasting old and new Africa. This two hour presentation, "A Glimpse of West Africa" will be presented at 7 p.m. March 5.

Another slide production, "Trans-Africa Safari," will be offered at 7 p.m., Feb. 25. Narrated by biologists Jim and Bonnie Hawkins, the program will be a pictorial essay of their adventures across the African continent. "The ability to stay afloat for 10 minutes!" is a pre-requisite for Bob Peterson's and Howard Sundberg's sailing class. The course will introduce basic principles and techniques of sail boating in the San Francisco Bay. Because of the limited space, only eight people will be enrolled during each of the two sections. The first series of four-hour classes will begin March 1, the second series April 19.

For a $5 fee members of the community will be welcome to use SC's physical education facilities for 2 1/2 hours each Monday evening throughout the 1975 spring semester. Physical education instructor Norm Friedberg will be there to advise and direct participants in volleyball, badminton, basketball and fitness activities.

Fly fishermen may be interested in saving money as well as learning the art of tying artificial flies from beginning to end. Larry Green of Field and Stream magazine will instruct the class which begins Feb. 5.

Among the community services courses to be repeated during the spring are "Psychic Phenomena," "Creature Features," featuring television's Bob Wilkins and "Belly Dancing."

Because it was sold out last semester, Jean Barish's course on Understanding Psychic Phenomena, which deals with E.S.P., healing and altered states of consciousness is being repeated by popular demand. This three hour class will begin on March 4, and April 15.

Besides her course offerings, Barish will conduct three separate Saturday workshops dealing with the following topics: "Altered States of Consciousness" on Feb. 22, "Psychic Development Explored" on March 15, and "The Science and Art of Healing" on April 5. A student may enroll for any or all of these, however, enrollment is limited for each workshop.

"An Evening With Bob Wilkins" will be on April Fool's Day. A short serial and several monster film strips will accompany his monologue, followed by a questions and answers period.

Two sections of another popular class, "Belly Dancing," will also be offered. Under Instructor Nakish's guidance, students will learn this ancient, exotic art. Only 20 students will be permitted in each section, both of which begin Feb. 10. These will be held in San Bruno's Engvall Junior High School on Sneath Lane.

Feb. 19, at 7 p.m., Judy Merin, teacher of Contemporary China at Skyline College will introduce a film documentary, "The Sleeping Giant." This movie is a record of Danish writer and filmmaker Jens Bjerre's trip through Northern, Central and Southern China during the closing months of China's first cultural revolution.

Merin was in Mainland China as recently as 1973 and will be available to answer questions after the film is screened.

Other programs to be offered include photography, woodcarving and a dog obedience course. Free brochures are available at all North County libraries and at the college.

Council Veterans Re-Elected

A returning crew of four student council veterans was elected to the top Skyline College Executive Board positions in student body elections held on the San Bruno campus recently.

A total of 274 Skyline students voted in the two day elections. Skyline College Dean of Student Activities Joaquin Herrero said this election turnout was "one of the biggest in the college's history."

Associated student body president will be Mel Jones of Pacifica. Last semester he was the comptroller of student activities. Vice president will be Leslie Smith of San Bruno. She served the council last semester as treasurer.

Newly elected secretary Nancy Allemand of Millbrae was a Skyline College councilperson prior to being elected to the new executive board of the student council. Spring semester treasurer will be Marty Reese of Pacifica who has formerly served as ASB secretary.

President Jones' main goal for the upcoming semester is "to change student council focus from one of student activities to one of student services."

The 27-year-old president also said he hopes to increase revenues from the sales of ASB cards by offering merchant discounts and other student services such as legal aid, a food co-op, and book loans. Utilizing this projected extra revenue Jones stated, "We can then think about subsidizing a day care center and possibly even a football team."

Vice President Leslie Smith said that student apathy is her main concern. "The council has received complaints from all ethnic and age groups. I plan to offer activities that will please everyone," Smith stated.

The Ethical Aspects of Fertility Drugs

By JOHN HORGAN

On Dec. 8 of last year, Mrs. Charlotte Lange gave birth to six babies prematurely at a San Jose hospital. Only one of them survived. Less than 13 months before, she had given birth to four infants. None of those lived.

All of those births were possible because Mrs. Lange had taken a fertility drug, Pergonal. Her physicians believed that it would not have been possible for Mrs. Lange to have become pregnant without the drug.

She and her husband, Alvin, would like to have more children. They are reportedly considering having Mrs. Lange take a fertility drug once more if it is again deemed necessary.

There have been similar cases of multiple births stimulated by such drugs in recent years.

But the Lange case has generated controversy because nine of the ten babies died. The case has renewed a simmering debate over possible ethical questions involved in the use of fertility drugs. Do couples and their physicians have moral questions to face when they consider the use of the drugs? Is this a debatable case of man tinkering with nature? Are there ethical implications in this which have not yet been explored?

Increasingly, theologians, philosophers, ministers, doctors and others are taking a look at all of these matters.

Among the most troubled by some of the grave implications of the taking of fertility drugs are Catholics, many of whom have assumed strong positions on abortion, contraception and the like, the other side of the ethical coin.

"This is really becoming a hot potato," says one Catholic priest in the North County. "It's something we haven't given enough thought to yet. We are usually on the other side of this thing. Catholics are always worrying about the unnatural. Can't you turn the tables on this and say isn't this unnatural too? Contraception is against the natural order per se. But it is natural for women to bear children. It is unnatural to be barren. This is a very tough topic."

Other Catholic spokesmen don't have quite so many reservations.

Dr. Robert Cunningham, a professor of philosophy at the University of San Francisco, says the use of a fertility drug is acceptable for him "if this is the only chance you have to conceive a child." Since scientists estimate that only 5 per cent of the persons taking the fertility drug stand a chance of having three or more children (the estimate is 15 per cent for twins), Cunningham has no problem with approving of its use.

"If the chances were one in ten that you would have multiple births then, well, there might be a question there," he says. He adds that, "There would be a problem if you took the pills for kicks to see how many babies you could have. That would not be good."

"I don't see any problem with stimulating fertility. It would be like remedying a deficiency in your diet. For me, all this does not represent a terrible problem."

In essence, the Rev. Joseph Farragher, S.J., of St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park, agrees.

Says he, "The fertility drug is helping a natural function. If there is only a small chance for multiple births and subsequent deaths, then it would be legitimate. But, just because a woman wants a baby and is having difficulty getting pregnant doesn't mean that the drug ought to be the first means tried."

How does this relate to the church's position on artificial birth control?

Says Father Farragher, "This is a little different. The birth control drug is not always good medicine. What would be considered to be good ethical medical practice would be acceptable morally. The church doesn't say you have to have as many children as possible. What is wrong with contraception is that it places a contradictory act on sexual intercourse."

CHARLOTTE LANGE

Dr. George Keenan of San Bruno, a Catholic physician who is on the staff at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, says that Pergonal can have exotic effects on a woman. "This is a very potent drug," he offers. "It isn't used very often. I've never used it."

Keenan says he doesn't see any moral question involved in the use of a fertility drug. However, he does caution on the frequency of the use of the drug. He says, if the Langes were his patients, he would caution them not to use Pergonal for at least a year.

As far as the possibility of multiple births is concerned, Keenan says such occurrences cannot be predicted. Says he, "Most people are just welcome to have the pregnancy. Large multiple births are not common."

Dr. Karen Lebacqz, an instructor in medical ethics at the Protestant Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley and at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco, says the question of fertility drugs brings up the whole issue of new techniques for stimulating fertility, including ways to fertilize the ovum both within and outside the woman's body.

"The objection has been raised that these techniques put the human being at more of a risk than if it were conceived in the womb," she says. "But the use of a fertility drug may do much the same thing. It could place the risk over and above what it would have normally been. It does sound like human intervention. And that argument can work both ways."

"You could say that, if you agree that fertility drugs are acceptable, then you ought to agree with the use of these other measures of stimulating conception (termed 'in vivo' and 'in vitro' fertilization by scientists). What I am looking for is some consistency."

Dr. Lebacqz says she would support the use of a fertility drug when it is being administered "to allow people to exercise their own happiness." She notes that, "What is natural is to have a range of expressions in fertility."

At least in part, the Rev. Walter Johnson, chaplain at Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame, agrees. He is a Presbyterian.

Says he, "I guess you could say that I'm at a radical extreme when it comes to dealing with natural processes. I believe people have the right to choose, to be responsible. Life is ambiguous. There can't be any final moral statement on such issues as these. And I embrace that. It is part of life."

"I do see some serious questions relating to fertility drugs. There is a question of who will pay for multiple births. Someone has to pay for them even if the hospital waives some of the costs. At a time when the population of the world is a concern, should we also be worried about fertilization control? And then there's the question of creating life outside the womb. What about that?"

According to the Rev. Johnson, "The key thing for me is to affirm the fact that life's paradoxes do exist. We must face the issues and work through them. I don't like rigid authoritarian church rules which block the creative process."

The Rev. Johnson says he and his wife have three children of their own. They have practiced forms of fertilization intervention and birth control as well, he says.

And what about the Langes? Mrs. Lange says, "We're not too religious, but we both believe things happen because God makes them. Without that belief we'd be in trouble because there wouldn't be anything that could help us understand."

Her physician, Dr. Vincent Nola, believes that, by the time she is ready for another pregnancy, new techniques may be available to help her avert another multiple birth. As it is now, unfortunately, there is no simple method for measuring the level of the estrogen hormone stimulated by Pergonal, Nola admits.

The Langes have been criticized by persons opposed to population growth and others concerned about the issue of the right to life vis a vis the nine out of ten babies who died.

Says Alvin Lange, "Anyone who thinks things like this don't hurt someone has a pretty low opinion of mankind. We didn't do it for the notoriety. We did it because we wanted a family and it's tragic it's turned out this way."

'Speech of Angels'

Music: The science or art of making a pleasing, expressive, intelligible combination of tones; Sounds having rhythm and melody. — Webster's Dictionary

Music: Addison called it the "greatest good that mortals know." Carlyle defined it as "the speech of angels," while Samuel Johnson called it "the only sensual pleasure without vice."

From time to time music steps before scholars to be classified, pictured, shaped into categories and defined so listeners may understand its nature. The results have been the production of handbooks that make listening a pleasure to the people who consult them.

Among the newest of these is Christopher Paviakis' "The American Music Handbook." Each section describes those individual artists, orchestras, or those ensembles that are notable for their production and tells something of their specialties. Thus, in the section on vocal ensembles we learn that the famous Norman Luboff Choir records for Victor and Columbia and while known for its classical repertory is best known for its lighter fare. From the same page we learn that the Mormon Tabernacle Choir contains 375 voices and has been heard by millions but for record collectors it has prepared many anthologies of choral music that are highly prized.

From a section on Radio and Television Music we learn that there are 30 commercial full-time classical music stations. These include San Francisco's KKHJ, and KIBE/KDFC, Sacramento's KFBK and KFAC in Los Angeles. In Fresno WDHA plays classical music part of the time as does KNEV in Reno, Nev.

The first classical music program to appear on television was aired March 21, 1948 by the Columbia Broadcasting System. Unfortunately, since then commercial television has done very little to promote the broadcasting of serious music. This is true even though the programs produced by non-commercial television have enjoyed some success.

Another section of "The American Music Handbook" is loaded with information about music and the stage. Others deal with performers, composers, music festivals, contests, awards, industries and fellowships. There is an excellent chapter on music periodicals that is proving invaluable to libraries as well as listeners throughout the country.

Surely "The American Music Handbook" is a volume to guide many a listener. It can be found in the reference collections of most public libraries.

Daly City Couple Is Married

Casa de la Vista on Treasure Island was the setting earlier this month for the reception which followed the marriage of Carolyn Marie Manbert and Dennis Brian Milton.

The couple was married at West Portal Lutheran Church in San Francisco. The Rev. Ihno Janssen performed the evening rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rush M. Manbert and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Milton. Both families live in Daly City.

When the bride walked to the altar with her father, she was dressed in a white princess style gown with a high neckline trimmed in lace, and a chapel length train also edged in lace.

Floor length blue polyester dresses trimmed in lace were chosen by all the bridal attendants.

Mrs. Edward DeMartini was the matron of honor for her new sister-in-law. Secondary attendants included Carol Bologna, Joan Pappas, Mrs. Raymond Squires, Mary Vassar and Mrs. Raymond Vieira.

Dennis asked his brother, Brendan Milton, to serve as the best man. Another brother, Kyran Milton, shared ushering duties with the bride's brothers, Rush and Robert Manbert, and Ray Squires, Ray Vieira, Rocky Carothers and Nick Brooks.

'Of Mice and Men' to Open at Oddstad Park

The Pacifica Spindrift Players' next production, John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" is well into rehearsal and is being readied for opening night Friday.

Steinbeck felt he had a unique perspective in writing his work. He considered that he was standing in a crowd without self-consciousness and watching the action from an uneditorialized point of view.

"Of Mice and Men" became his first very large financial success, which of course, changed his material conditions and attitudes. "Of Mice and Men" is therefore an opportunity to view and hear the original, early Steinbeck.

The story takes place in the Salinas Valley where Steinbeck had a deep feeling and sense of identification with the fruit pickers.

To be seen in the play are Bob Southworth, Bob Kip, Bernard Hyman and Lynn Linman; Candi Rettig, Brion Devine, Darrell Greer, Tom Johnson and Ed Johnson.

Bill Crull is the director and Warren Gabrieli is the assistant director. "Of Mice and Men" will play at Oddstad Park Center, 1000 block of Crespi Drive, Pacifica.

Tickets will be available at the door.

SCOUTLOOK deadline is Feb. 3, according to local editor Mrs. Becky Burke. All copy should be typewritten on 44 space lines and turned into Mrs. Burke by that date.

UNOPENED cases of unsold Girl Scout cookies must be returned to Daly City Chairwoman Mrs. Mary Ridge by the Feb. 3 deadline for troops to receive full credit on troop profits.

PROGRESSIVE SING-ALONG culminated in hot chocolate and cookies served at the home of their troop leader, Mrs. Dolores Riggs, for the Junior Girl Scout of Troop No. 758.

Heidi Bohren, Janet Conser, Staci Cubic, Joy DiRicco, Karen Foley, Julien and Shanna Hall, Kelly Leurs, Juanita Lucero, Janine Lungi, Leslie Osgueda, Kristin Payton, Melinda and Terri Rehard, Monica Rourke, Lanie Schultz, Lori Shea and Gina Stroh participated.

Before you start reading, run over to the drawer where you keep all the clippings about how to lose weight quickly, easily, permanently and painlessly and throw away the calorie counter. International geography and history will come alive for youngsters of South San Francisco's Spruce Elementary School Feb. 7, in an International Day program involving not only school-age students, but the whole community.

Students at Spruce Adult School will staff and prepare as many as 20 booths on the campus at 501 Spruce Ave., each showcasing artifacts and cultural representations of a different nation. Foods, representative of each nation, will be available at moderate charge beginning at 1 p.m., with students, exhibitors and visiting members of the community all invited to join in what will be a massive picnic.

International Day, planned as an annual event, according to Spruce School Principal Frank McNutt, will

The unique day-long program is one of a variety of special events taking place through the year at South San Francisco Unified School District campuses and emphasizing educational opportunities of special nature.

Spruce School is characterized by its multi-cultural emphasis in one of San Mateo County's most cosmopolitan cities. The school is among pioneers nationally in introduction of bilingual education as partially financed by a federal grant.

Kindergarten and first grade classes for Spanish surname as well as English-speaking national origin youngsters already are being taught in both Spanish and continue through 4 p.m. A second phase of the celebration will begin at 8 p.m. at Morelos Hall in South San Francisco at a dinner-dance to be staged by the area's Mexican-American community and to which Spruce Adult School students will be invited.

Mexico, Japan, China, Nicaragua, Guatemala and Scandinavian nations will be among those countries represented by campus booths, according to McNutt. Puppet show programs, music and dancing also will be among morning program events for Spruce's kindergarten through sixth grade students in half-hour "shifts" beginning at 9:30 a.m. The public is invited to watch these events, as well as to participate in afternoon activities beginning with lunch at 1 p.m. and continuing through 4 p.m.

Bicentennial Plates Delayed

The tri-color Bicentennial auto license plates originally planned to be issued this year have been postponed. There is some question as to whether they will be issued in 1976, a Department of Motor Vehicles executive said.

Clell Fullerton, office manager of the DMV office at 425 N. Amphlett Blvd., San Mateo, explained that a contract for the plates had been broken down when the firm was unable to guarantee the life of the plates for the period involved.

Regular plates for 1975 are currently being issued, and Fullerton noted that the registration deadline this year is Feb. 7.

Additionally, as before, special name or letter plates are issued at an extra initial cost of $25 and year-by-year cost of $10 over the standard license plate cost.

Fullerton urged San Mateo area residents to submit their applications by mail, if they have received billing by the state. He explained that San Mateo office processes the applications within two to three days and that it eliminates a long wait in line.

Such applications mailed to the San Mateo office (zip code 94401) are processed here and not in Sacramento, he said.

DC Library Is Expanding

For the Daly City Public Library, 1974 was a year that meant more facilities and service for the people.

As the year ended, the Serramonte Library was under construction with a dedication date for Spring 1975.

This branch will contain two stories with 12,289 square feet (10,309 on the first floor and 1,980 in the basement floor) being devoted to public space.

In comparison to the Westlake Library, there will be an additional 3,000 square feet for public use.

Moreover, the downstairs reading room and the community room will occupy more space than the entire John D. Daly Library.

The Serramonte Library will provide all services found in other branches, as well as quarters for a Daly City-California History Room.

To meet demands, the Library board and staff formulated plans to increase services available, especially in the provision of recreation type books and non-book materials.

Consequently, more films, records, slides, periodicals and newspapers were added.

And to meet the trend towards use of the so-called "how-to-do-it" books, the Public Library is adding a large number of volumes dealing with arts, crafts, games, home studies, gardening, pet raising, cooking, etc. Already a surveyor has remarked about Daly City's collection of such materials.

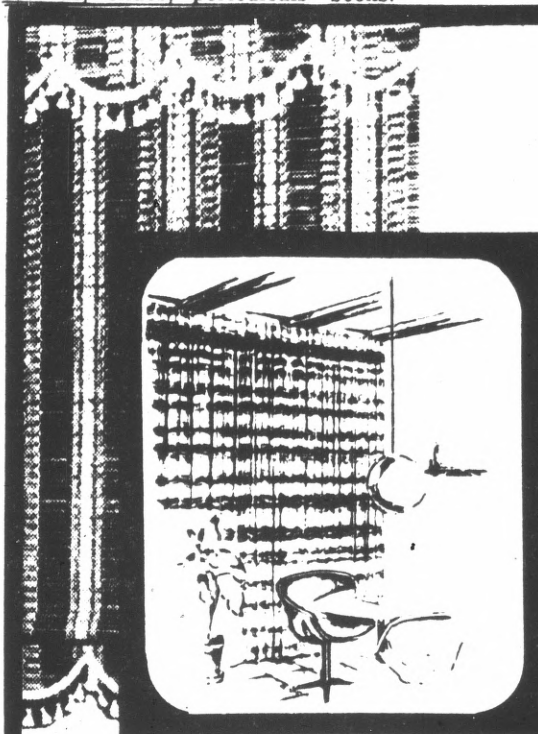

Cooperation with the Jefferson Elementary School District points to greater use of the children's library space and materials.

Plans are being formulated for more "children oriented" programs, such as, more story hours, picture shows, etc.

The Serramonte Branch will contain a children's reading area, a story telling nook, two listening posts and an area for film viewing.

Such programs in 1975 are planned along lines developed during 1974 in the Bayshore Library.

The Westlake Library, meanwhile, will be altered to provide for a much larger collection of young people's books.

Record High Use Of Cow Palace

Reporting record high rental revenues, attendance and arena use days, the Cow Palace in Daly City announced that 1974 was the most successful year in its history.

Lex Connelly, manager of the Cow Palace, said the arena was contracted for 224 use days last year, a five per cent increase over 1973's previous high of 214 days.

Rental revenue in 1974 amounted to $803,869 as compared with $713,158 in 1973, an increase of 13 per cent.

Attendance last year also reached a new high of 1,600,202, representing an increase of 12 per cent over the 1,434,522 persons who came through the Cow Palace turnstiles in 1973.

Comparison of 1974 figures with those of 1971 when Connelly became manager of the Cow Palace was even more dramatic.

Arena use days numbering 144 in 1971 were 80 less than in 1974 — or a difference of 55.5 per cent. Rental revenues three years ago totaled $573,327, 40 per cent below 1974, while attendance of 1,095,500 in 1971 was 47 per cent under last year.

Pointing out that the Cow Palace was created to serve the livestock industry of California, Connelly said both the Grand National show and the Grand National Junior Exposition of 1974 were highly successful events.

Growth of the Grand National as evidenced by record revenues and gate receipts last year is "the keynote of the whole development of the Cow Palace in recent years," Connelly said.

Skyline Press Elects New College Editors

The Skyline Press, a roster of Skyline College's weekly newspaper, named new editors for the spring 1975 semester which includes a mixture of seasoned veterans and new faces.

Taking over the editor-in-chief's position is Heidi Van Zant, last term's assistant editor. The Pacifica resident moves into the post vacated by Linda Adreveno of Daly City, who will become the newspaper's new photo-art editor. Adreveno's new assignment was established as part of the growth of the Skyline Press operations. She is also a former Skyline College Press assistant editor and reporter and Jefferson High School editor of the Tom-Tom newspaper.

Van Zant is no newcomer to the editor's spot. At Terra Nova High School she was the news editor and editor-in-chief of the Tiger Tales newspaper. At Skyline College the sophomore student also has held numerous other positions including assistant editor, feature editor, and investigative reporter and feature writer.

Recently she was one of the winners of the Western Newspaper Foundation's journalism scholarship; completed in the college's Bank of America awards program, was the 1974 winner of the Catholic News-men's McQuade Award (San Francisco) for her investigative reporting on pornography, and the college's 1974 Freedom of the Press award.

Moving into the assistant editor's slot is Bob Polzoni. Last semester Polzoni was the newspaper's associate editor following a term as a reporter on the Skyline Press. He is a resident of South San Francisco and a graduate of Serra High School.

There are three newcomers to the top positions. The new associate editor is Dean Chalos of Daly City and a graduate from Serramonte High School. Last semester he was a staff reporter and feature writer.

Pam Cronin, former Crestmoor High School San Bruno editor-in-chief of The Crest newspaper, moves up to the feature editor's post. Last semester she was a reporter and feature writer on the Skyline Press.

The new sports editor will be award-winning freshman Dave Murphy. He is a graduate of San Bruno's Crestmoor High School where he was The Crest's sport editor. This past semester he won three of the Skyline Press' four Northern California Journalism Association of Community College honors. They were photography essay and sports feature writing.

Ecologist John Olmsted's Dream

Park From Mendocino to Lake Tahoe

It was over 100 years ago, in the spring of 1888, that John Muir made his famous walk across California from San Francisco to the Yosemite Valley.

Such a magnificent trip through nature, however, has generally been relegated to the history books by most of today's modern folk. But there is one fellow who thinks they ought to have the opportunity to share the experience themselves.

John Olmsted, a 36-year-old ecologist and naturalist from Glen Ellen in Sonoma County, has a dream to place a 400-mile linear park on the coast of Mendocino County clear across the state to Lake Tahoe.

Along the strip of park would be campgrounds and public and private hostels, with shuttle buses for families, individuals and students. "It would provide the first integrated environmental resource education network in the nation," Olmsted said. There would also be trails for hiking, bicycling and horseback riding.

The idea of it all is to let people enjoy a beautiful part of California, and if all goes well, Olmsted plans the opening of the park to coincide with the country's commemoration of the bicentennial in 1976.

Olmsted, who officially announced his linear park proposal last November, had a photo exhibit and information booth publicizing his venture at the Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City recently.

Olmsted said the route for the park is located in the state's one remaining east-west concentration of existing and potential parks and preserves. The park, combined with coast trail proposals, would connect Cape Mendocino and six coastal state parks with the giant coastal redwoods. It would stretch out to the Lake County mountains, the Sacramento Valley, and around the Sutter Buttes, traveling along the Yuba and Nevada County river trails up into the Sierras, and finally lead to the Lake Tahoe area.

Along the way are nearly 40 natural areas and support areas bordering both Highway 20 and some of the smaller county roads.

Olmsted said one-third of the land needed for the park is publicly owned, and that the remainder would cost about $2 million to purchase.

The plan received a boost from the passage of the State Recreation and Trails Bill, which will help establish a statewide trail system.

The involvement by Olmsted in the linear park developed from his interest in the preservation of the Pygmy Forest Ecological Staircase. Olmsted has taught natural history in extension courses at both the University of California and San Francisco State, and during that time, took students up to Mendocino County.

The unique forest consists of five terraces of land, formed beneath ancient seas, which rise in staircase fashion, each step being about 100 feet higher and 100,000 years older than the one below it. Each step supports a distinctive association of plants, animals and soil.

Because of the ecological significance of the forest, Olmsted joined with others to preserve the land from private developers. In 1968, Olmsted was one of those who founded the California Institute of Man in Nature, which has since been trying to raise enough money to purchase the privately owned parts of the staircase.

It was through this institute that Olmsted began expanding the linear park idea.

Olmsted and the institute have been assisted by a group of Serramonte High School students, who are enrolled in instructor Abe Evenich's Community Environmental Education Program. The class has been involved in the replanting of about 1,500 trees near the Serramonte campus and the Chinese Cemetery in Daly City, and in Marin County.

During March 20-28, 10 of the Serramonte students will participate with others in nine separate hikes along different sections of the proposed linear park to stir more interest in the plan. The California linear park is actually only the beginning for Olmsted. What he really envisions in the future is to have this strip of land become the start of a 3,000-mile corridor that would reach the New Jersey Pine Barrens.

Teen Snow Trip Set

The Westlake Jr. Teen Club and Serramonte Juniors, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department will travel to the snow Feb. 8.

A full day of activities is planned at Leland Meadows Snow Play Area located near Strawberry, California, east of Sonoma in the Dodge Ridge area. The facility offers safely supervised toboggan runs, saucer slides, tube runs and snow play areas.

Chartered buses will leave Daly City at 5 a.m. and return at approximately 9 p.m. The Westlake Club will leave from the Westlake Community Center, while transportation for Serramonte Juniors will leave from Skyline School.

Cost for members is $10, guests $12, and includes transportation, trip insurance, admission and equipment rental. Teens may obtain permission slips from their advisors or from the Recreation Office, 134 Hillside Blvd., Daly City.

Foreign Students Will Have to Pay Tuition

Beginning in September of this year, foreign students attending classes in the San Mateo Community College District are going to have to pay full tuition.

This will be the first time in the history of the district that foreign students, who number 225 this semester, have not been allowed a subsidy from the district to help finance their educations here.

The decision to take that course came Wednesday night when the district's board of trustees voted, 3-2, to do away with the current subsidy.

Voting in favor of full tuition for the 1975-76 school year were trustees James Tormey, Robert Tarver and Francis Pearson. Voting against the plan were trustee Eleanore Nettle and board president Carl Ward.

The three-member majority cited economic pressures as the main reason for voting to enforce full tuition.

Tormey said surrounding school districts in San Mateo County are experiencing grave financial problems and to have the college district spend local funds on foreign youngsters would be untenable today.

Pearson added that the nation's economy is so unstable that the district has no choice but to pare the subsidy from the budget.

Tarver said the fiscal realities of today forced him to vote in favor of full tuition. Mrs. Nettle argued that a compromise solution ought to be sought and Ward said he believed that the present subsidy ought to be extended for another year.

Ward said that, with full tuition, the district will probably attract only affluent foreign students.

Mrs. Nettle said there is demonstrated community support for continuing the present program and, she added, some middle ground should be found.

Spokesmen for the foreign students from the community and from the colleges urged the board not to enact full tuition as well.

Last week, the board listened to several hours of arguments on this same subject.

The new tuition figures are the same as those set for non-resident students at the colleges, youngsters who come to the schools from out of state.

The new tuition rate will be $41.20 per unit to a maximum of $1,235.84 for the school year. Both foreign students and non-resident students will pay that rate.

This year, the figures vary. Non-resident students pay $33.30 per unit to a maximum of $999.14 for the whole year. Foreign students pay about two-thirds of that, $22.53 per unit to a maximum of $676 for the year.

The district's administration had recommended that the current foreign student tuition be continued in 75-76 and that it be continued as such until it reached 50 per cent of the non-resident tuition. Then, the tuition would remain at 50 per cent of the non-resident rate thereafter.

Using those figures and presuming that 225 students would take part in the foreign student program, it has been calculated that the district could lose as much as $147,000 in the near future through its present subsidy program.

It has been Tormey's contention that this money would have to come out of other programs to the detriment of local students.

Joe Holsinger, a spokesman for Cong. Leo Ryan (D San Mateo), said Ryan favors retention of the subsidy.

Travel-Study
Course Set

A travel-study course, offering five semester credit units is being offered by the College of Notre Dame.

It provides a 38-day trip to London, Amsterdam, Innsbruck, Venice, Rome, Florence, Paris, with side trips.

The tour leaves San Francisco June 30 and returns Aug. 6. The price is $1,650.

Included is a seven-day cruise of the western Mediterranean leaving from Genoa and stopping at Nice, Sardinia, Sicily, Malta, Tunis and Spain's Balearic islands.

The five credit units may be applied to art, drama or history and is open to the general public. Those taking it for college credit are required to attend orientation classes prior to departure and to pre-plan an individual area of study.

Government Proposals Worry Physicians

By JOHN HORGAN

Physicians in San Mateo County and the rest of the country are worried. Traditionally among the most independent of professionals, they are feeling hemmed in by the ominous hand of the federal government. And they are in a fighting mood.

The object of their ill-concealed despair is the Professional Standards Review Organization, more commonly referred to as a PSRO. As of Jan. 1, the doctors here, under the auspices of the San Mateo County Medical Society, have one year to come up with a viable PSRO whose duties will include a review of federally funded medical services and guidelines for length of stay in a hospital and for certain kinds of costs.

All of this is very heavy stuff for physicians. Many of them are extremely unhappy. Organized resistance is forming and strident calls for non-cooperation are being heard.

One Burlingame doctor has prepared a statement urging local doctors to refuse to "carry the ball for the government." Dr. Milton Kamsler, says, "We will be within the law and will, at the same time, force the government to accept the responsibility for its problems."

Dr. Sanford Marcus of San Francisco, president of the Union of American Physicians, a new organization of militant doctors, agrees with the Kamsler stance. In a letter written last month, he says, "We would frankly prefer boards of lay persons to take the rap for the progressive denial of care that will certainly take place under compulsory nationalized health insurance."

These men, and other like them, believe that the PSRO is probably doomed to failure.

Says Kamsler, "The costs of this program will be fantastic. Doctors should be providing care and advice for their patients, not worrying about money. That's not our function."

Marcus says, "Doctors are concerned about the Hippocratic oath. Let someone else worry about the cost factor. The PSRO is a cost-control organization. We'd like to see it called that."

Physicians are certain that the PSRO will eventually lay down strict rules on payment for certain kinds of care, dubbed "cookbook medicine" by some. In other words, if the PSRO says you can only remain in a hospital for a week after a hernia operation, that's all the government will pay for under its guidelines.

Doctors say that is wrong, contrary to the tenets of their profession. Says Kamsler, "When we are acting as physicians we should never answer the question as to what parts of and how much of health care should be paid by government."

But, if the physicians fail to police their own fiscal house, the government is ready to do it for them within a year. If the medical society, using a grant of $600,000, cannot emerge with an acceptable and functional PSRO, the secretary of the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare has the power to set up a PSRO in this county himself. It is fully expected that such a body would be composed of laymen and consumers, with doctors paid as consultants.

A key entity which will review this county's PSRO plan is the county's Comprehensive Health Planning Council. According to the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974, CHPC is supposed to coordinate activities with the PSRO as well.

Some believe that, if and when national health insurance becomes a reality in this country, it will be organizations like the PSRO and CHPC which will administer it. This specter has local health officials scrambling.

The medical society is anxious to create a PSRO which will be acceptable. Gene Taylor, the group's executive director, offers that, "We've been moving toward a review process like this for some time. The PSRO is just an extension of what we've been trying to do. So far, we haven't found anything in the PSRO that we can't live with."

Contrary to the position taken by doctors like Kamsler and Marcus, Dr. Howard Lindsey, director of the medical society's PSRO project, is urging cooperation. "If the PSRO is to be formed, it is important that local providers of health care services participate in the planning, operation and management of the PSRO."

In a letter to county doctors written this month, Dr. Donald Hales and Dr. Oscar Hills, president of the medical society and president of the county's Health Care Foundation respectively, state that, "... we do not agree with Dr. Marcus that we should stand on the sidelines and let lay people be responsible for peer review."

Still, there is one thing that all of the members of the society's hierarchy concur on: the need for local physicians to set their own standards for care.

"We will only support and participate in a local PSRO if we have the uncompromised authority to judge the appropriate level of care for individual patients served under federally funded programs," say Hills and Hales. "If any second guessing or retroactive denials should take place then our leadership would be among the first to recommend that we completely disassociate ourselves from this program."

They emphasize that, local doctors owe it to themselves to monitor themselves. "In our opinion, the public would have little sympathy if local physicians refused to establish and monitor their own standards," say the officials. "In our judgment, it would be very difficult for us to face the public if we refuse to organize and administer PSRO's locally when we are given the opportunity to do so."

Physicians aren't the only ones scurrying to retain some semblance of local control. Dr. George Pickett, director of the county's health and welfare department, says his office will have a role even if national health insurance does come about.

Says Pickett, "It is assumed that national health insurance will become a fact of life within five years. Regardless of the nominal author of the final bill and regardless of how seriously reorganization of health care is emphasized, some people will be uninsured for all things and all people will be uninsured for some things. When they are poor, local government will have to intervene."

Pickett believes he has gotten the jump on national health insurance with his plan to establish small health clinics all around the county. This is his way of preparing for a system which, he says, will necessarily miss some citizens.

And what about the future of the county hospital in this mix? "The continued existence of the public hospital should depend upon whether or not it is needed to meet the impatient medical care needs of the community in which it is located," he says.

However, he adds, "It does not seem to be necessary for local government to operate the hospital. Costs are not noticeably lower in the public hospital and access and continuity can probably be better assured through primary care centers with contractual relationships with secondary (satellite) care centers."

Le Pacini Barry Got Little Credit

In the NBA all-star game, Rick Barry was easily the game's MVP, not Walt Frazier, who scored 30 points but didn't get eight assists (more than any player on either team), eight steals (more than any player on either team), or five rebounds, as Barry did. And Rick threw in 22 points with all of that, which ain't bad, either.

As usual, Barry got very little credit from the eastern announcers, who seemed reluctant to mention his name under positive or negative circumstances. But that isn't Barry's fault. Eastern sports announcers have never been able to accept the fact that there are fine athletes and marvelous teams west of the Mississippi.

What was especially obnoxious was the way that Oscar Robertson, who, if he played basketball the way he does color commenting would be wiping sweat off the courts, was delighted to praise Nate Archibald — when he did condescend to praise any western player — but virtually wiped Barry from his vocabulary. All very strange behavior from supposedly impartial, professional observers.

Barry, incidentally, is now eighth in the NBA in field goal shooting accuracy with a percentage of 50.2. That's indicative of what kind of year he's having, because he is rarely near the top 10 in that category this late in the season. And he's also among the leaders in field goal attempts, which illustrates that he isn't waiting for just the good shots.

And for our semi-annual Quick Pro Basketball Quiz. If you get two, you're pretty good.

- 1) Who were the leaders in field goal percentage in the NBA for the years 1971-72 and 1972-73?
- 2) Who holds the record for most assists in a single NBA game, and how many did he have?
- 3) Who holds the record for most free throws in one game, and how many did he have?
- 4) Who was the scoring leader in the first NBA season?
- 5) The highest scoring average for a season in the ABA is held by a player now in the NBA. Which player is it, who did he play for in the ABA, and who does he now play for?

ANSWERS: 1) One in the same — Wilt Chamberlain. He shot at a 64.9 clip in '71-72, and 72.7 in '72-73. 2) Bob Cousy shares the record with Guy Rodgers, Cousy getting 28 as a Celtic in 1959, and Rodgers getting his 28 as a San Francisco Warrior in 1963. 3) Wilt Chamberlain, who on the night in 1962 that he scored 100 points, made 32 free throw attempts and, miraculously, made 28. 4) Joe Fuks of Philadelphia, who in that first NBA season of 1946-47 averaged 23.2 points per contest. 5) It was Charlie Scott, who averaged 34.6 during the 1971-72 season with the Virginia Squires. He now plays for Phoenix.

YOU FIGHT FANS should be interested in the upcoming 50th Anniversary dinner of the Joe Benjamin vs. Jack Silver fight for the Pacific Coast Lightweight title bout (won by Benjamin in 10 at Old Rec in San Francisco); the dinner, not the fight, to be on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 23, at the San Francisco Athletic Club at 1630 Stockton St. Cocktail hour will begin at 1:30 p.m., dinner will be served at 3 p.m., the early hour being so that all the old fighters can be home early for training purposes. Admission is $8.50, which will buy you a meal and introductions to some of the finest fighters and other ring figures to ever grace boxing arenas.

Promotor Billy Mahoney announces that the following old-time have already accepted invitations: Jimmy McLarnin, Mushy Callahan, Young Corbett, Bobo Olson, Jackie Fields, Billy Wallace, George Levine, Alex McDonald, George Parnassus, Teddy Hayes, Ernie Flieg, Babe Griffin, Ray Lunny II, Ray Lunny III, Joe Shannon, George Martin, Johnny Erjavac, Marcel Thuru, Louie Miller, Joe Roche, Young Joe Roche, Olin Loy, Mack Newman, Mario Duccini, Al Manfredo, Frankie Garcia, Joe Herman.

Teddy Hayes, who trained Jack Dempsey, will also be there. Others expected are Buddy Baer, Joey Lopez, Lloyd Marshall, Danny Nunes, Dynamite Murphy, Mickey Willis, Ed Helzer, Ernie Eredia, Sammy Offerman, Arnold Emanuel, Pat Valentino, Millio Militti, Chick Devlin, California Joe Lynch, Vic Grupico, Andy Divodi, Gaston LaCade, Paul Negri, Frankie Thomas, Ray Actis, Johnny Farr, Matt Jimenez, Paul Lewis, Jimmy Cosenza, Alan Ward, Jimmy Murray, Johnny Smith, Frankie Fuller, Jack and Art Downey, and Freddie Steele.

Other possibilities are Jack Dempsey, Tony Zale, and Billy Soose.

If you can't find a familiar name or a boyhood idol in that list, you're not a fight fan.

Mahoney has a good track record for attracting names at these affairs. Seven former world champions attended the fifth annual California Oldtimers Boxing Hall of Fame dinner he arranged last October.

Billy, incidentally, does these things for the love of it. He makes no profit. And as a working man he must arise at 4 a.m. each morning in order to squeeze enough hours into the day to work on such promotions. A ring historian, Mahoney also writes for the best boxing publications in the world, and can therefore promise a bonus with the dinner, a souvenir fight program including stories about the fighters (written by Mahoney, naturally) and historic photos.

If you're interested in tickets, send a check for $8.50 for each person to Billy Mahoney, 329 E. Michigan, Fresno, CA. 93704. And get them in fast, because the S.F. Athletic Club holds only about 350.

The toughest element in such affairs, notes Mahoney, "is sweating out the answers to the invitations. Many let you hang until the last day and many don't bother to answer. Yet the night of the dinner they are there. Then I have to listen to the restaurant owner and waitresses screaming that they don't know how much food to buy and how many tables to set up."

Mahoney, once a fighter himself, agrees with us that the Ali-Foreman fight was "the worst exhibition of a heavyweight title fight I've ever seen."

"Foreman was a disgrace to the heavyweight crown and Ali showed me that he has nothing left but moxie."

Does Billy think the fight was a put-up job? Like us, he says, "No fix would have looked that bad. A fix would have been a much better fight to watch."

Thank you, Mr. Mahoney. It's nice to have an expert agree with us now and then.

LITTLE KNOWN, yet amazing fact: Jesse Owens, when he equaled the world 100 yard dash mark in 1935 at 9.4, didn't use starting blocks!

Little known, yet not so amazing fact: The average designated hitter last year batted for an average of .256, hit 14 homers, and drove in 74 runs.

LOCAL NOTE: One of San Francisco State's top wrestlers is former Terra Nova grappler star Tom Cheroniak.

Cheroniak, who wrestles in the 142 pound class, has been making strong performances in the Gators' recent spate of thrilling, last match wins in the Far Western Conference.

TAG END: Pac-8 coaches keep insisting that this will be the closest basketball race in years, because it is the strongest collegiate league in the country. It sounds like typical coach talk — until you look up Pac-8 team records. It is the only major college league in the country in which every team has an over-all winning record thus far this season.

Rams Upend Warriors Westmoor Recovers Early Form

By JERRY LITRELL
Post Correspondent

Serramonte High's basketball team snapped a Westmoor win streak that spanned three years Wednesday and signaled the start of what should be the closest North Peninsula League title chase since the league started in the early sixties.

Serramonte beat the host Rams, 57-50, in Daly City.

Westmoor's last loss in league play was at the hands of the Regents in their last meeting in the 1973 season. Since then the Rams had won 22 straight regular NPL games. The record of 23 is still held by South San Francisco (67-69).

Serramonte's victory throws the league into a four-way tie for first and no matter who wins the title, it seems these four teams will all be involved in the Shaughnessy playoffs: Westmoor, Serramonte, SSF and Jefferson.

Serramonte 57, Westmoor 50
An unbelievable one-man assault on Westmoor by Serramonte's Marvin Worthy destroyed the Ram streak.

Worthy, who had two points in the first half, personally picked up the Regents with a 14-point third quarter to lead Serramonte from as much as a nine-point deficit to a nine-point lead within eight minutes.

Westmoor's Rob Baptista, who missed three days of practice with an ankle injury suffered over the weekend, did not start and neither did the Ram fast break.

By the time Baptista entered with six minutes left, Worthy's antics (19 points in the second half) were unstoppable.

SSF 56, HMB 45

South City reeled off ten straight points with its fast break to open the final period and break open a 38-36 lead, parlaying it into an 11-point win.

Sub forward Joe Monnot hit four of his five attempts from the floor and center John Heise added six more points in the last period for the Warriors.

Jefferson 76, Oceana 75
Two field goals by sub guard Mike Osborne and a free throw by Randolph Singleton gave Jeff a five-point lead to open the second overtime and the Indians held on.

Jose Guamon had 20 points for Jefferson. Osborne added 19 off the bench. Gordon Speck had 20 for Oceana.

El Camino 63, Terra Nova 60
The upset win by El Camino may have knocked TN out of the playoffs. Reserve guard John Rico came off the bench in the last minutes of play to set up two EC baskets and the victory.

Rico broke the Tiger press with a court length dribble and pass to Roger Shurke. Rico then stole the inbounds pass, attempted a momentary stall, wheeled and fired again to Shurke for a streaking lay-in that put the Colts up by four with 20 seconds left.

Keith McCarthy again led Camino with 17 points, seven in the last quarter. Todd McClure had 22 for TN.

Serra High Downs St. Francis Lancers

Serra High's basketball team dropped a 68-56 West Catholic Athletic League decision to unbeaten St. Ignatius Wednesday night in San Francisco.

The Padres stayed with SI until just under six minutes remained in the final quarter. At that point, Serra tired and SI finally took control.

Serra is 4-2 in the WCAL and 13-5 overall. St. Ignatius is 6-0 and 18-0. The Padres go into the league's second round in a three-way tie for second place.

SI entered the contest the top-rated team in the Central Coast Section. Serra was third.

An estimated crowd of 1700 saw the matchup. The game was sold out more than an hour before the opening tip and many fans were turned away.

The Padres had a 10-7 lead with 3:29 left in the first quarter before the big and mobile SI front-line sparked a 12-2 spurt.

But Serra fought back from the seven point deficit to stay within striking distance until the final minutes. SI's margin was down to one and two points numerous times.

The smaller Padres scrapped well inside and held their own on the boards. SI outscored Serra 9-0 from 5:53 to 3:03 of the last quarter to wrap up the win.

John Caselli, Serra's outstanding forward, had 26 points — including 12 in the second quarter. He is averaging 17.7 points per game in the WCAL.

Mike O'Regan, Joe Moureaux and Jim Walsh all had eight for the Padres. Walsh filled in well when regular center Joe Ned got in foul trouble early.

"I thought over-all we did a heck of a job, especially on defense," said Serra coach Pat McGlennan. "We just got tired at the end."

Greeks Make State Finals

The Greek Americans have earned a berth against the Southern California soccer champions Feb. 16 in Los Angeles by virtue of their 3-1 triumph over San Francisco A.C. Sunday.

The Greeks defeated SFAC for the Northern California Open Cup title when Sam Sabonkaya outtraced Mike Clement to the ball and slashed in an 18-yard shot 15 minutes into the second period to give the winners a 2-1 lead.

In other action, Homenetmen blanked the Arabs, 3-0, and Brazil raced past the Incas, 6-0.

SSF District May Slash Sports Budget

By JACK BIK

In a drastic economy move, the South San Francisco Unified School District trustees voted to eliminate all after-school athletics and taxing next September if a tax election measure fails.

The cuts were two of a series of budget slashes made by the trustees during a meeting that began at 3:30 p.m. Monday and ended at 12:30 a.m. Tuesday, with time out only for dinner.

The session was marked by a series of clashes between teachers and administrators, and spirited defenses — sometimes highly emotional — of various programs.

The object of the session was to slash $875,000 from the budget, in accordance with Senate Bill 90, which puts a strict ceiling on the amount a district can spend. At least $449,000 in built-in increases is already contained in the 1975-76 school budget, plus the effects of inflation. The tax rate had been cut 50 cents this year.

Trustees said they would restore most of the programs cut out if the voters approve Proposition C this March 4 election.

They are asking the voters, to increase the amount that may be spent per child from $1,068 to $1,163 — an equivalent of 50 cents per $100 valuation. They pledged to raise the tax-rate by only 35 cents, however. This amount would bring in $875,000.

Trustees studied three different lists of proposed cuts: 31 by the Community Finance Study Committee, eight by the Association of Administrative Personnel and nine by the local chapter of the California Teachers Association.

They divided proposals into three lists — A, "for sure"; B, maybe; and C, not to be considered.

After reviewing the lists the trustees found that the eight cuts given an "A" rating only saved $486,952. They then proceeded to transfer program from C to A.

"It's the worst thing I've had to do since I've been on the board," President John F. Dillon declared.

"I thought I was working for a construction company," Board Clerk Thomas H. Henkle declared. "I found I've been working for a demolition company."

"No other alternative open to us," apologized Vice-President Kenneth Austin.

Mike Hefferman head of the El Camino High coaching staff, and Bob Brian, South San Francisco varsity baseball coach, as well as several parents, and one student, made a futile fight to save the athletic program.

At first, the board placed the program in the "C" category. Then, after 11 p.m., the trustees decided that the only way to reach their goal would be to eliminate district financing of the program.

Among the programs reluctantly assigned "A" standings were:

- Eliminate 18 aides for special education, save $92,400.
- Reduce nursing hours by 50 per cent, save $70,000.
- Eliminate data processing, save $20,000.
- Cut librarians by half, save $50,500.

Trustees began making the cuts after 11 p.m. when they found that they had no other way of trimming to the $875,000 goal.

The initial "A" items included:

- Hiring freeze, save $100,000. (To include liberal interpretation of leave policy.)
- Increase class size by one student per class, save $60,000.

• School busing, save $135,000.

• Eliminate all administrative expenses, such as conventions, subscriptions and mileage, to save $35,684.

• Drug abuse program, save $17,000.

• Elementary instrumental program, save $50,000.

• Library books, $42,000.

• Shutting down one elementary school, save $50,000.

Gators Led By Locals

A pair of Peninsulans, Kevin Morford and Tony Cecil, helped San Francisco State take second in the tenth annual SF State University Wrestling tournament Saturday.

The Gators ended up with up 76 points, edging UC Berkeley by one-half point. Arizona State University won the tournament with 90 1/2 points.

Morford, a graduate of Hillsdale High School, took first place in the 158-pound division, defeating ASU's Ted Ashley in the finals. Freshman Cecil, formerly of Capuchino High, finished fourth in the 126-pound division.

Meet Charles Gust New Restaurateur

When he was younger, Charles "Chuck" Gust wasn't exactly in love with the restaurant business. Bussing dishes and cleaning greasetraps for his father Nick Gust, who owned Nick's at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, wasn't his idea of a future. And he vowed never to return to the restaurant field when he joined the Navy back in 1967. He spent four years at sea, some of that time aboard the aircraft carrier Coral Sea as a plane captain. Chuck was seeing another side of life, and gradually his attitudes underwent a change.

When he was discharged from the Navy, a lot of changes had taken place — and not just in Chuck. His father, the one-time mayor of Pacifica, had expanded operations at Rockaway Beach. While the time-honored Nick's restaurant was still the same popular and scenic dining spot, two new restaurants had sprung up next door: The Moonraker and Captain Charles, both specializing in seafood dishes and a sophisticated approach to service and decor.

Chuck liked the new arrangement and saw opportunities he hadn't realized in his less halcyon days. He is now back with his father and at the moment can be found tending bar at Captain Charles. He has every intention of following in his father's footsteps, expressing the desire to learn all phases of the business and hoping one day to reach the top.

Hot Diggity Offers Gourmet Soup Pantry

Bobbie Diggity has arrived in San Mateo County and he loves it, so says the host, owner of the new Hot Diggity, where "Bobbie" resides. Located in the Bayhill Shopping Center and open only a few weeks, this San Bruno restaurant is already attracting people from all over the Bay Area. It's really a gourmet soup pantry (four different soups are served daily), and sandwiches and salads are also featured. Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco is a convenient dinner stop for theatergoers. Ten theaters are within easy walking distance, and there is ample parking in the big, adjacent Taylor Ellis lot. Lehr's superb "Pay-By-The-Ounce" steak dinners are a great way to get your evening on-the-town off to an exciting start. Enrico Romano, owner of Romano's Italian restaurant in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, is a man dedicated to his profession. He spends many hours daily preparing the sauces and other ingredients which go into the superb family-style servings of such Italian specialties as Tagliarini with Meat Balls, Gnocchi (Italian potato dumpling) and Lasagne a la Enrico. You also owe it to yourself to try one of his many pizza varieties, served small, medium and extra large.

"Queen of Camp" New Finocchio Feature

Lori Shannon, the "Queen of Camp," is the latest attraction in Finocchio's all-star cast of female impersonators in the "Spotlight on Show Business" revue. You can see these fantastic entertainers perform in four shows nightly, Wednesday through Sunday, with the first being at 8 p.m. Bay Meadows Golf Course and Driving Range will reopen Sunday, Feb. 2, which should be good news to those who fancy the game. Hours on weekdays are from 10 a.m.; Sundays, 8 a.m. The Snack Shop will also be open to serve sandwiches and beverages. If you don't play golf, now is the time to learn.

Garden Restaurants Offer Coupon Program

A big savings can be enjoyed from 4 p.m. at the various Garden Restaurants, located in Tanforan Park Shopping Center, San Bruno. Clip the coupon found in today's Bright Lights and save 50 cents on any food purchase of a dollar or more. The coupon is valid after 4 p.m. only. Monday through Friday.

Restaurant Fame Is Far Reaching

A phone call from Theresa Urban informs us that Scotty Campbell's restaurant fame is far reaching. The perennial favorite Edgar Bergen, who learned about this Redwood City restaurant from Don Rickles, and his Mrs. dined here last week before his performance in San Francisco. When Theresa inquired about his friend Charlie McCarthy, Bergen said, "Charlie is on vacation. But I wouldn't have him miss this delicious prime rib on our next trip. Charlie eats meat now." San Francisco has its Fisherman's Wharf, but San Mateo has Vince's Italian and Sea Food restaurant, which offers an array of menu favorites. Just about every menu suggestion can be ordered for take-out, which comes in handy when time is a factor. Roast Chicken and Polenta is a Sunday Special.

County Has New Budget Plan

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors began an innovative program Thursday of asking the various county department heads to submit proposals and costs for new services or improvements they intend to request in the 1975-76 county budget.

Purpose of the program is to permit a review by the board of the proposals and for the board to indicate the attitude it might take when the proposals are submitted in budget requests.

Chief County Probation Officer Loren Beckley, the first department head to appear before the board, said he intends to request that $34,801 in supplemental probation subsidies the county is receiving this year from the state be used to develop a pilot program to provide guidance to victims of violent crimes in filling out compensation claims with the state.

State law provides that persons who have, as the direct result of a crime, suffered a pecuniary loss which they are unable to recoup without suffering serious financial hardship, are entitled to financial compensation from the state.

Beckley said that many victims who are entitled to such compensation fail to file claims, although law requires that they be advised of their right to do so.

"Many times," he said, "crime victims tend to become lost in the justice system, and no one has the primary responsibility in serving as an advocate for them in dealing with their physical or monetary losses, or emotional stresses."

Beckley said he anticipates that a pilot program would train volunteers in providing assistance and follow-up to such persons, including referral services to agencies who provide assistance to persons, such as rape victims, who suffer emotional distress after a crime.

Beckley stated that his proposed program would assist police departments in advising and assisting victims concerning their rights.

He said that he had discussed the matter with the county's police chiefs and that they endorse the plan in principle.

Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson said that he would have proposed such a program, to be financed with federal funding from the Law Enforcement Assistance Association, if Beckley had not done so.

Sorenson said that follow-up to see that crime victims are properly advised and assisted is important. This includes, he stated, informing them of the court process and assuring them that there is an interest in their plight.

In response to questions by board members, Beckley said that he had agreed to have the probation department be the agency to instigate the program "because I want to be a good guy for once."

Jim Forrest, executive director of the County Human Relations Commission, said he will be asking for $47,644 in additional funding to expand a program for the HRC getting involved in crisis prevention rather than crisis intervention.

He referred, Forrest stated, to confrontations and disturbances on the campuses of the schools in the county.

Also, he added, the HRC would like to delve further into the affirmative action programs of the apprentice programs conducted by the unions in San Mateo County.

Supervisor John Ward said that Forrest's proposal was a "realistic approach" when it came to comparing prevention of campus unrest with court costs and probation of persons arrested as a result of such disturbances.

The Board of Supervisors scheduled discussion of several programs for its Jan. 30 adjourned meeting, beginning at 9 a.m. in the Hall of Justice, Redwood City.

Matters scheduled for the meeting:

- The San Mateo County Bar Association's proposal for increased fees in the private defender program, $220,000.

- The county manager's proposal for expansion of the public information office program, including the hiring of an assistant and the services of a full-time secretary, $40,000.

- A proposal to expand library facilities in Atherton, Belmont, Portola Valley and at the central library on Tower Road in San Mateo, $2.3 million.

- The County Engineer and Road Department's proposal to start storm drain projects in East Palo Alto and Emerald Lake Hills, $176,000.

County Manager M.D. Tarshes said that the proposed county library projects consist mainly of capital improvements for which the county has a program of setting aside of funds to finance.

The board placed on agenda for its Feb. 4 meeting discussion of legislation it will request, including a request of the Superior Court for two additional judges and related staff.

Park Site Talks OKd

Beginning of negotiations for the acquisition of a regional park site on San Bruno Mountain was authorized last week by the County Board of Supervisors.

Robert E. Friday, director of property, was requested to commence negotiations with Foremost McKesson, Inc., San Francisco, owner of 1,124 of the 1,244 acres shown in the park concept plan approved by the board Jan. 8, 1974.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes recommended beginning of negotiations, although the board has not yet approved the proposed master plan for the regional park and has not yet determined the full limits of the property needed for the park.

He noted that the property is included in the conservation and open space element of the County General Plan, and that the County Parks and Recreation Commission had recommended the 1,244-acre site be included in the San Bruno Mountain regional park master plan two weeks ago.

TRAINING CRUISE

Coast Guard Machinery Technician Third Class Terry L. Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Turl F. Fisher of 519 Heathcliff Dr., Pacifica, has embarked on a training cruise aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Boutwell, homeported at Seattle.

He and his shipmates are undergoing refresher training in the San Diego area, designed to test and maintain their operational readiness.
